The reasons for the designation are as follows:

a.) Built in 1885, by English settlers. The church is the only original building inside Cannington Manor Historical Park. It still remains an active Church with a Congregation.

b.) The Church of All Saints was named after All Saints, a Church at Selsley, Glouster, England.

c.) The Church was built in the form of a Cross. To describe this it would be the Cruciform Church in its historic arrangement, symbolizes the Christian life, the Font, Entry, Nave Prayer, Choir Praise, Sanctuary, Communion with space in the centre, (the crossing) for a Coffin to rest, the earthly completion in death. There are twelve corners on the slant roof and the shingles on the Bell Tower were hand cut to form a pattern of Rose Petals. The finishing boards below the Belfry have the same pattern also. There are 12 congregational pews, 2 long choir pews on the north of the Transept and 2 short pews on the south of the Transept. This would accommodate approximately 90 people. All of these furnishings were made from birch wood from the local Moose Mountains.
